ARTNOBLE Presents: Alberto Selvestrel - Dialogues

From October 1st - 4th, ArtNoble presents the emerging Italian photographer Alberto Selvestrel, his new body of works and book launch.

Continuing on the mission to source talented emerging artists and curate site-specific exhibitions, ArtNoble is pleased to announce the debut of the young Italian photographer, Alberto Selvestrel. Due to the Covid-19 emergency, the MIA Photo Fair, where Selvestrel was supposed to exhibit, was canceled, but ArtNoble is partnering with DAAM to continue the initiative of supporting young photographers.

Selvestrel is known for his particular attention to landscapes combining synthesis and luminosity. In his new series, Selvestrel analyzes the relationship between the natural and built environment. His work questions the relationship of cohesion between his dystonic vision of the world and striking architectural geometries, transporting the viewer into a world where human and nature coexist.

In conjunction with the presentation, ArtNoble will debut Alberto Selvestrel's new book "Dialogues" featuring some of his latest body of work and philosophy.

ART NOBLE

Matthew Noble

Matthew Noble founded ArtNoble in the summer of 2018, aiming to provide an alternative to the standard art gallery model by constantly sourcing talented and upcoming artists, irrelevant of their background and medium, and curating site-specific exhibitions. ArtNoble's mission is to overcome the barriers and exclusivity typically associated with today's art world, with the ultimate vision of connecting artists and their work to an ever-growing number of collectors and art enthusiasts. Operating in this way allows ArtNoble to make contemporary art accessible to everyone, creating mass engagement with different types of artwork, increasing the perspective with which art is perceived and engaged with.

Matthew Noble co-curated solo and group shows including “Solidification of Soul” (2015) solo exhibition by Salman Al Najem, Palazzo Serbelloni; “ArtHouse” (2018) group exhibition curated in country house in Crowthorne, Berkshire, United Kingdom; “Contemporary Connections” (2019) group exhibition in collaboration with Willesden Gallery, London. Since 2019, Matthew has been co-director of the gallery The Address (Brescia) where he has co-curated “Blue Pruno Blue” (2019) solo exhibition by Édouard Nardon, text by Domenico de Chirico; “A Year Without Summer” (2019), solo exhibition by Edoardo Caimi, text by Piergiorgio Caserini; “S/S/P” (2020) bi-personal exhibition by Roberto Alfano and Oliviero Fiorenzi, text by Piergiorgio Caserini.

Upcoming shows include a solo exhibition by Edoardo Manzonei, The Address gallery; bi-personal exhibition by Andrea Bocca and Mida Fiore, The Address gallery; and “Una Boccata D’arte”, project in collaboration with Galleria Continua and Fondazione Elpis, acting as collaborator of Galleria Continua for the Valle d’Aosta region and town of Aise.

Alberto Selvestrel

Alberto Selvestrel was born in Turin in 1996. At the age of 17, he approached photography with particular attention to the landscape. Two years later he deepened his research through self-study, deciding to focus on the anthropic landscape and its modifications, starting to develop his personal style characterized by geometric and minimal compositions.

Selvestrel’s research aims at condensing the maximum level of his conceptual expression into the minimum level of form. His photographs establish a link between the landscape’s reality and that imagined by its conceiver. By exploring the concept of landscape in a nostalgic way, he creates work in which a fascination with the clarity of content and an uncompromising attitude towards conceptual and minimal art can be found. Since 2017, Alberto Selvestrel has exhibited with ArtNoble in personal and group shows across Europe and at contemporary art fairs.
